

THE CAROLINA INN in Chapel Hill provides an atmosphere of warmth and grace with secluded courtyards, intimate parlors and expansive ballrooms that are perfect for weddings and receptions, and all their related events.

Our model wears a gown from VICTORIAN ROSE BRIDALS and carries a spring bouquet of locally grown flowers designed by NINTH STREET FLOWERS.

Ninth Street Flowers

Flowering cherry blossoms cheerfully announce spring awakening in the South. Ninth Street Flowers combines these NC mountain cherry branches with locally grown lilies, peonies, lambs ear and garden roses in jubilant shades of pink.

Victorian Seasons

A vintage tier showcases a collection of deep sky blue vases that spill over with an eclectic mix of succulents, herbs, ferns and garden flowers, set on burlap linen. Victorian Seasons infuses the exquisite bouquet with pure white garden roses and peonies.

Tre Bella, Inc.

Cream, blush, pink and peach garden delights are spectacularly arranged upon dressed ceremony pillars in the Bryan Courtyard. Tre Bella, Inc. adds deep-colored dahlias, succulents and fiddleheads to the soft palette of the romantic bouquet. A truly southern sweetheart table is set with Anna Weatherly china.

Catering Works

Vibrant verdant shades contrast with rich hues of berries and wine in an outdoor garden fantasy brought indoors. Ferns, fronds and frogs frolic in the moss, bundles of wheat grass present the dinner menu and roses, dahlias and orchids spread their petals.

University Florist

Nothing could be finer than a Carolina blue table filled with hydrangea, dianthus, white peonies, tulips and cream roses guarded by collectible Herend rams. We may get an argument from those who favor Duke blue or State red, but this classically elegant look is one of the many that creates a perfect complement to Hill Ballroom.

The English Garden

Enchant your guests with the rich, warm colors of the Carolina landscape. Handcrafted pottery showcases a bounty of sustainable locally-grown Southern florals including garden roses, iris, sunflowers, hydrangea, and tobacco flowers. The table runner of distressed wood reflects the character of the barns lining NC's famed Tobacco Road. This Carolina bride carries a lush presentation of garden blooms bound with a unique banding of hand-picked tobacco leaves.

Fresh Affairs

Platinum styling defines every detail of this breathtaking high-set table in the Old Well Room of The Carolina Inn, also shown on our Winter/Spring 2012 magazine cover. White orchids and silver leaves cascade from the ballroom's chandelier over a table runner of billowy hydrangeas and silver vines. The menu keepsake incorporates a rendering of the Inn, sealed in an acrylic stand with silver detail. Custom-created chair skirts that coordinate with the silver suede linen and napkin are all part of this original Fresh Affairs design.
